The musical notation consists of a single horizontal staff with a vertical line at the top and bottom. The notes are represented by black dots on the staff. The first measure contains two notes: one on the first line and one on the second space, connected by a horizontal line. The second measure contains a single note on the second space with a wavy line below it. The third measure contains two notes: one on the first line and one on the second space, connected by a horizontal line. The fourth measure contains a single note on the second space with a wavy line below it.
